DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it should be limited to a single paragraph.. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1,4-10,12-15,17-19,21,22,24 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Riebe et al. (US 6,644,306) in view of Weers et al. (US 2008/0226564).

The Riebe et al. reference comprises an aerosol preparation for a metered dose inhaler comprising an aerosol composition including a known chemical compound (see col. 3, lines 20-60) and a propellant (see col. 4, lines 7-28), and an enclosure (not shown) having a neck gasket 3 and a valve part including a metering chamber 4 and a slide member (proximate reference numerals 7 and 15 in Fig. 1) associated with a first gasket 12 and a second gasket 9, wherein the gaskets are made from known polymer-type materials (see cross-hatching of elements).

However, the Riebe et al. reference fails to disclose the aerosol composition as being a macrolide compound. The Weers et al. reference discloses an aerosol composition used in conjunction with metered dose inhalers for treating respiratory infections including an anti-infective agent comprising a macrolide compound. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to substitute an aerosol composition including a macrolide compound as, for example, disclosed by Weers et al. for the aerosol composition of Riebe et al. wherein so doing amounts to the substitution of one aerosol composition used for respiratory ailments for another that would work equally as well.

Furthermore, the Reibe et al. reference fails to disclose the gaskets as being made of a resinous material selected from a group consisting of butyl rubber, ethylene-propylene rubber, chloroprene rubber, polyethylene, polybutylene, polyacetal, polyamide, polytetrafluoroethylene, polypropylene and thermoplastic elastomer as claimed. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to make any or all of the gaskets of a resinous material selected from a group consisting of butyl rubber, ethylene-propylene rubber, chloroprene rubber, polyethylene, polybutylene, polyacetal, polyamide, polytetrafluoroethylene, polypropylene and thermoplastic elastomer as claimed, since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use as a matter of obvious design choice. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The DiGiovanni reference pertains to another metered dose inhaler arrangement.

Claims 2,3,11,16,20,23 and 26 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
